DRASTIC ACTION IN NAZI REVOLT

Hitler Justifies Himself Before The Nation

Berlin, July 13. Chancellor Hitler, in a speech in the Reichstag to-day vigorously defended the work of the Nazi Government. He declared that it had rescued Germany from collapse and had achieved the political unity of the Reich and the people.

Referring to the revolt, he mentioned that 17 were dead, including 19 high Storm Troop leaders, 31 ordinary Storm Troopers and three Black Uniform leaders.

All were shot. Also, 13 Storm Troop leaders and civilians were shot while resisting arrest, while three committed suicide. Furthermore, five members of the Nazi party who were not Storm Troopers, and three black uniform men who were guilty of disgraceful manhandling of prisoners were also shot.

Chancellor Hitler said that the events of which the Reichstag had been called to hear an account would live in German history as a tragic warning memory. The crisis, born from a number of causes, including personal guilt and human defects, might easily have had destructive consequences for a long time.

BURDENED WITH CARE
"I never let myself be troubled about my own life or fate, but I am heavily burdened with cares which weigh down the present and future of our people," he declared.

He denounced the "small clique of international intriguers and apostles of Communism who had deliberately tried to produce chaos in Germany."

He added that a few of "these fools and criminals" were still trying to carry out their work of destruction, but an overwhelming majority of German workers had seen through these Jewish international benefactors of humanity. The Nazi State would finally root out and destroy the last remains of this source of national poison and folly.

He also denounced the group of political leaders who saw their future finished by January 30, 1933, but who had not resigned themselves to it and the revolutionaries who wanted to make a revolution a permanent condition. He said that many of the latter had fought for the Nazis, but had later failed to realize that their lawless attitude was out of date.

ROEHM'S INDIFFERENCE
Chancellor Hitler declared that he had pointed out the impracticalities to Captain Roehm late Chief of the Brown Shirt Army, who was summarily shot in his cell during the recent revolt, without perceptible results, and the complaints increased.

"I received communications about the conversation of the higher Storm Troop leaders referring to the necessity for a new revolution," he said. "Captain Roehm tried to deny all the occurrences and said that they disguised attacks against the Storm Troops."

"Witnesses who swore to the allegations were mishandled and it became clear that a group of high leaders was continuously working to estrange the Storm Troops from the Party and that Captain Roehm was busy with ambitious plans."

A CORRUPT SWINDLER
Chancellor Hitler referred to his reluctance to believe that his relationship with Captain Roehm was founded on lies, and to his desire to spare the movement and the shame of the revelation.

He described how the "immoral life of Captain Roehm had spread. Unknown to him, Captain Roehm used as an intermediary a thoroughly corrupt swindler, to whom the Chancellor referred as "Herr von A." who had formed a connection with General von Schleicher, who drew up a statement declaring that the present regime could not be continued.

The Army, Navy and all national organizations must be combined under one hand namely, Captain Roehm, while the Vice-Chancellor, Captain von Papen, must be removed and replaced by "Herr von A." Chancellor Hitler, remaining, at any rate, temporarily.

Chancellor Hitler said that he offered unyielding opposition to the scheme.

REMOVAL OF HITLER
The Chancellor described the preparations for the revolt and said that propaganda was carried on alleging that the Reichstag proposed to dissolve the Storm

Troops. Captain Roehm, on the pretext of social relief had collected millions of marks, and terrorist groups had been formed, composed of hardened criminals.

Chancellor Hitler, at the beginning of June, made his last attempt. He summoned Captain Roehm, who assured him that the rumours were exaggerated and untrue. He pledged that he would see that matters were rectified, but the result was Captain Roehm now prepared for the removal of Chancellor Hitler.

The majority of the leaders were informed that Chancellor Hitler had agreed to the plan, but wished to be in custody for a day or so with a view to escaping the effects of the revolt on foreign relations.

"Meanwhile, the man was already brought who was to remove me, later, the Standard Leader, Herr Uhl, confessed before his death his willingness to carry out this order," the Chancellor declared.

NEW PLAN OF ACTION
He continued that the plan for revolt during the Storm Troops absence was abandoned when it was found that Chancellor Hitler would not co-operate, and direct action was decided on, beginning with an attack against the Government and Chancellor Hitler's arrest, so that further action could appear to be under his orders.

Captain Roehm, Herr Ernst, and others declared before witnesses that the bloodiest prolonged fight was to take place.

The seriousness of the situation, was first apparent from messages from abroad. British and French newspapers increasingly referred to the imminent revolution.

Chancellor Hitler decided to prevent the shedding of blood of tens of thousands and to arrest Captain Roehm and others.

He received urgent reports at 1 a.m. on June 30 that an attack on the Government buildings was to begin, and the Storm Troops were called out at Munich.

IMMEDIATE ACTION
He realized that he must act like lightning to prevent disaster. Only ruthless and bloody intervention could prevent the revolution spreading. It was better that a hundred mutineers and conspirators be destroyed than that tens of thousands innocent victims be led to death.

After Chancellor Hitler's speech, the Reichstag approved it unanimously with acclamation for the Government's action in dealing with the rebels.

The Chamber thanked Chancellor Hitler.—Reuter.

HITLER CHEERED

Berlin, July 13. Chancellor Hitler returned this afternoon from Berchtesgaden, where he was recuperating in readiness for his momentous speech to the Reichstag, which met in the Kroll Opera House.

Stringent precautions were taken to prevent any incidents. Police guarded the entrances to the Opera House throughout the day. The Chancellor was escorted by an armed bodyguard, while scores of picked black uniformed guards were distributed throughout the building.

Enormous crowds outside the Opera House here thunderously cheered the arrival of Chancellor Hitler. The building was packed with people.

The 600 Deputies, in uniforms of black and brown, rose with raised arms and shouted "Heil" thrice as the Chancellor entered.

Bursts of overwhelming applause punctuated the Chancellor's speech, especially his declaration, "I beat down the revolution before it had time to spring up."—Reuter.

FOREIGN PAPERS BANNED

Berlin, July 13. Alongside the unanimous lyricism of the German Press it is possible to overhear doubts from the man in the street as to whether Chancellor Hitler's speech will completely reassure all the grumblers and carpers.

Scepticism is likewise voiced as to whether Chancellor Hitler's reassurances are likely to satisfy the Storm Troopers, dismissed through reorganization.

The Chancellor's references to the Nazi ill-treatment of prisoners and other known abuses is widely commented upon.

The public had hoped to learn the names of the executed men but Reuter is officially informed that these will be withheld. Meanwhile Bavaria has banned the London "Evening Standard," the Paris "Intransigent" and the Paris "Soleil" until July 25 for alleged indiscretions.—Reuter.

Paris, July 14. The absence of reference to foreign policy in Chancellor Hitler's speech is regarded as significant.

It is believed that the Chancellor deleted important passages relating to foreign countries in consequence of the diplomatic situation created by Sir John Simon's speech, yesterday, which wins the heartiest approval of the French Press.—Reuter.

ITALIAN PRESS SILENT

Rome, July 14. The Italian newspapers do not comment on Chancellor Hitler's speech.

It is officially pointed out that the speech is solely concerned with internal affairs in which Germany must judge for herself.

The people, however, are apparently shocked by the large number of executed officials.—Reuter.

AMERICAN OPINION

New York, July 14. Instead of arbitrarily commanding obedience, Chancellor Hitler now almost humbly seeks popular support, declares the "New York Times" in a leading article on the Chancellor's Reichstag speech. Only General Goering maintains his former haughty tone, the journal adds.

General Goering's statement that Chancellor Hitler's will is the only law in Germany recalls the "hoc volo sic jubeo" of the ex-Kaiser. Fortunately, there are signs that such tyrannical rule cannot be established in Germany in the name of Hitler.

The "Herald Tribune" declares that millions of intelligent Americans and Europeans who have come to believe that Hitlerism is a menace to peace in Europe, that it is barbarizing Germany and that a Hitlerized Germany is a standing threat to civilization, will be confirmed in that feeling.

They will view the speech as a terrifying Document because it so manifestly sincere.—Reuter.

HITLER'S SPEECH

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, July 13. Before the Reichstag which was crowded to capacity, Herr Hitler made a lengthy speech.

He said that the National-Socialist party took over the State which, politically and economically was in complete decay. On January 30, 1933 therefore, it was not an assumption of the Government from the hands of another Government, but final liquidation of the unbearable situation for whose relief the whole nation yearned. On January 30 not only a new Government was formed for the "nth" time but a brand new regime swept out the sick era.

I need not speak further what every German feels and knows. The mere thought of a return to the system of political parties is laughable and absurd.

After the stirring speech, Goering praising the Fuehrer's iron resolution and firm loyalty to the old principles and true comrades of the Reichstag, proposed the following resolution which was carried: "The Reichstag approves of the declaration of the Reich Government and thanks the Chancellor for his energetic and resolute rescue of the Fatherland from a civil war and chaos."—Transocean Kuo Min.

MISAPPROPRIATION OF FUNDS

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, July 14. After proceedings lasting almost four months, judgment was pronounced on Saturday in the trial of the former Reich Commissioner for Unemployment Relief, Dr. Guenther Gereke, for alleged misappropriation of funds. Gereke, who, in the first trial, was sentenced to two and a half years' imprisonment and fined 100,000 marks, was again given the prison sentence of two and a half years of which, however, one year and three months which accused had served while on remand, are deducted.

Gereke's secretary, Arthur Freytag, who was charged with complicity and in the first trial was sentenced to four months' imprisonment, was acquitted.

The Court found Gereke guilty of having misappropriated funds belonging to a periodical published by the Association of German Rural Communities of which the accused had been president for many years. Gereke was Reich Commissioner under the von Schleicher, von Papen and Hitler Governments, and his arrest in March last year caused a sensation.—Transocean Kuo Min.

FLOODS IN JAPAN

Casualty List

Kanazawa, July 14. The Prefectural Office here in a statement issued to-day, declares that it was ascertained that at present 83 are dead, 30 injured, and 214 missing as a result of the floods.

The river waters are rapidly becoming normal, but there are signs that the impoverished sufferers are getting disorderly.

There has already been one case of mob violence at Toyama Prefecture where a crowd beat 12 local officials because relief was not forthcoming quickly enough.—Reuter.

SIR HARRY LAUDER ENTERTAINS

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 27. Sir Harry Lauder spoke and sang to over 20,000 school children who yesterday carried gifts of fragrant flowers and baskets of delicious fruit to patients of the Glasgow Royal Infirmary.

Sir Harry was one of the leaders of the children's bowmen procession, and accompanying him were Sir Robert Wilson, Mr. Jimmy Simpson (of Glasgow Rangers F.C.), and Mr. James A. Jeffrey, organizer of the event, which attracted thousands of sightseers to the route along which the children passed.

Leg by "Prinz von Riga," a handsome St. Bernard dog, the procession of over 20,000 children marched from Rhyewood Square to the accompaniment of hymn music played by over a score of bands.

Nurses of the Royal Infirmary received the gifts from the children when they reached the institution, and at a gathering in Cathedral Square Sir Harry Lauder sang to the children and delivered a brief address.

LARWOOD AT HIS BEST

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 27. Larwood was in brilliant bowling form against Lancashire yesterday, taking six wickets for slightly over 8 runs apiece. Voce claimed the other four, and the visiting county were all out for 119. Before stumps were drawn Nottinghamshire had passed their opponents' score by 8 runs for the loss of six wickets. During one spell Larwood was responsible for six wickets for 1 run.

Voce, bowling to a leg trap, had both Watson and Hopwood caught at the wicket on the leg side with the score at 17. But for rather poor fielding the visiting county would have fared even worse. For Iddon, when four, was missed, and had another escape behind the wicket at 16, while Tyldesley was given a "life" when he had made three.

Forty valuable runs were added in quick time before Tyldesley had his leg stump knocked out by Larwood. With a single added, Iddon was out in the same way as Tyldesley, and then Larwood disposed of Lister, Parkinson, and Eekersley in one over. Sibbles fell another victim to Larwood, so completing a most unhappy morning for the visitors.

Larwood was at his deadliest when bowling to a field of a short leg, a long leg, two slips, and a fieldsman close in the gully. When play was resumed he reverted to three slips and a backward point.

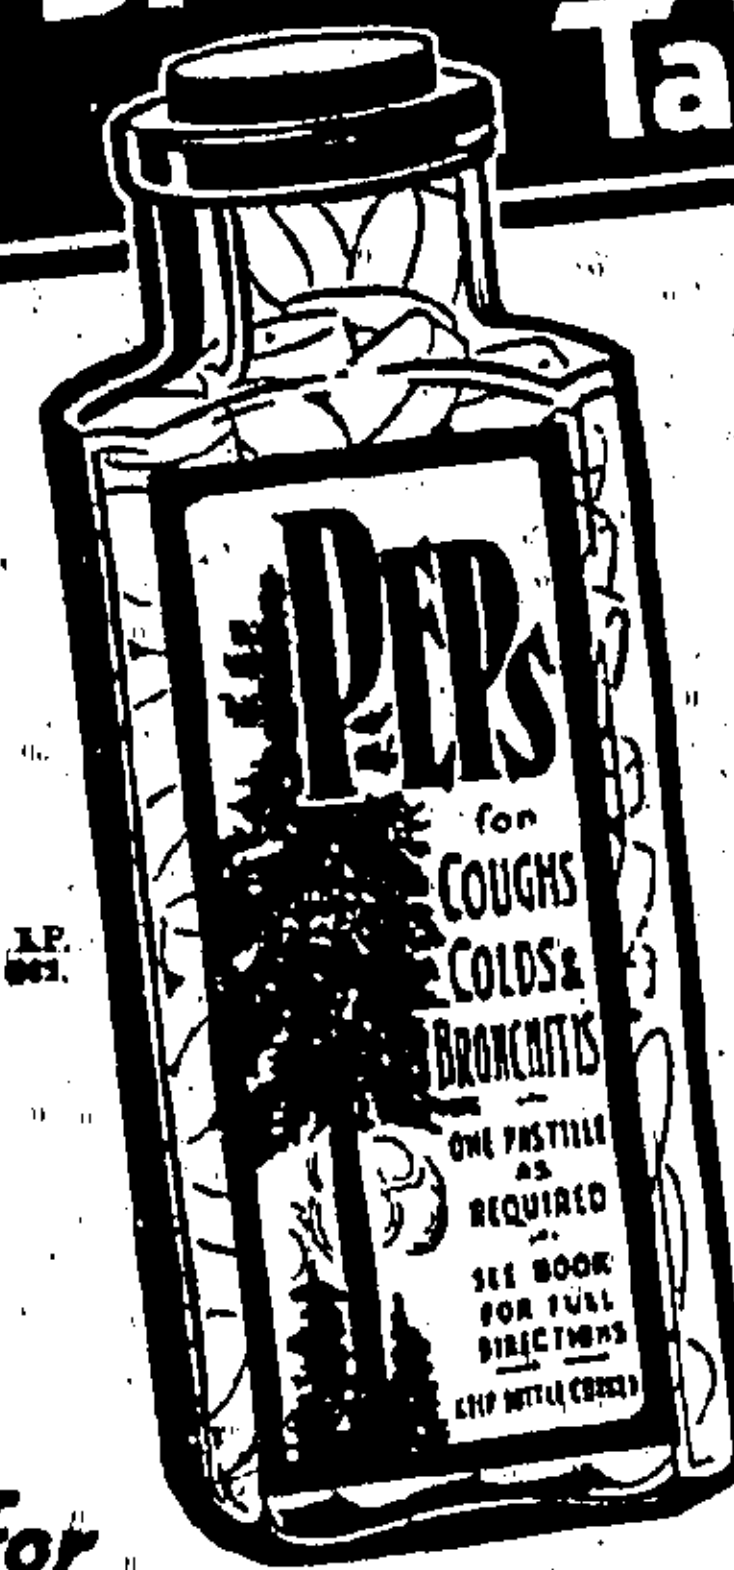

Paynter and Duckworth, batting carefully, put on 27 runs in thirty-five minutes for the ninth stand, but the innings closed for 119.

When Nottinghamshire began their reply, Keeton showed splendid form, but, with the score up to 22, Harris gave a catch behind the wicket. Keeton hit away in bright fashion, and, taking advantage of an escape when 25, he sent up 50 in less than an hour. When the tea interval arrived, the score stood at 60. Keeton being 40.

The pitch continued to give bowlers considerable assistance, and both Keeton and Vaulkard were out with the score up to 77. Hardstaff stayed through an awkward period while 33 runs were added, having scored his 52 in a trifle over two hours, but then Larwood got on top, three wickets going down for a mere 10 runs. Iddon had so far taken four wickets for 51.

POLITICAL OUTLOOK IN EUROPE

Franco-British Meeting Results

London, July 13. A highly important speech on the European situation, with particular reference to the proposed Eastern Locarno Pact mutual guarantee, was made by the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, in the House of Commons, to-day.

He said that the main subject which the French Foreign Minister, M. Louis Barthou, wished to discuss during his recent London visit was the possible creation of a pact of mutual assistance which would embrace a number of countries in Eastern parts of Europe.

The plan in contemplation would involve, in the first place, a pact of mutual assistance between Soviet Russia, the Baltic States, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Germany. The pact would follow the analogy of Locarno. In addition, there was a further feature which he thought, M. Barthou described as a condition which would in a certain way, connect Russia with the existing Locarno Treaty.

If this matter was pursued it would take the form of a guarantee on one hand, and to Germany on the other, in the event of conditions arising which would bring the original Locarno Pact into operation.

ASSURANCE BY FRANCE

Also, specifically, there would be, as he understood it, an assurance offered by France in respect of the boundaries of Russia and also the boundaries of Germany on Germany's eastern side. That was the bare bones of what was no doubt a very ambitious and elaborate scheme.

It was plainly a pact of regional guarantee, and, if it were possible to secure real reciprocal pacts of mutual guarantee between suitable groups of nations, that process would contribute to the general building up of collective security.

The first point on which it was very necessary to be clear was that no British Government would lend any countenance, encouragement, or moral selective character in the sense of building up one combination as against another. He had made that entirely clear in his discussion with M. Barthou, who accepted and confirmed it without any qualification.

Quite a different situation arose, however, when what was proposed was of a general reciprocal character. Was Russia prepared to offer the same guarantee to Germany as she offered to France? If France was prepared to offer similar guarantees to Germany that she offered to Russia, the objection on the score that what was contemplated was not in a true sense a mutual guarantee, could be dismissed.

This second point, which had been made clear from the beginning, and which had also been acknowledged and willingly accepted by the French, was that whatever encouragement Great Britain might be prepared to offer to this new pact she would not undertake any new obligations.

RUSSIA MUST JOIN LEAGUE

There was a third thing involved. If Russia was going to become a party to the new arrangement in Eastern Europe it was absolutely essential that she should come within the League of Nations. That was the view taken by the British Government.

It was the view, he believed, taken by the Russian Government, and in the course of the last few days he had made it entirely plain to M. Barthou that it was the view taken by the British Government.

It would be an immense gain if Russia came into the League, and the British Government were prepared to warmly welcome Russia to the League.

If Russia made an application, the British Government were satisfied that it would be a contribution to the peace of the world, but it was necessarily a matter for Russia to decide whether she would make an application or not.

Germany's Participation

If there was to be effected by this new Franco-Russian initiative a new pact of mutual guarantee in which Germany was to be included, Germany's participation in the system of reciprocal guarantees would operate for the security of Germany as well as for her neighbours, and that would afford the best ground on which to resume negotiations for the conclusion of a convention such as would provide for the reasonable application of the principle of Germany's equality for all nations. As a practical thing, Germany must be a member of the new combination if it came about.

It appeared to the British Government, continued Sir John Simon, that they ought not to allow the occasion to pass without endeavouring to take advantage of it for the purpose of promoting the object for which Disarmament Conference was called.

"I am happy to be able to tell the country that as the result of the conversations which took place between the British Government and the representatives of the French Government on Monday and Tuesday, the French Government agreed with the British," he concluded.—British Wireless.

NATIONAL-SOCIALIST SHOT DEAD

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Vienna, July 14.

The National-Socialist, Cornelius Zimmer was shot dead in his house here on Saturday by three assassins who managed to escape unidentified, leaving their victim riddled with bullets and sprawled on the bedroom floor.

Since the dead man had long been known as a National-Socialist, the authorities conclude that the murder was probably of political origin but as yet have not been able to turn up a single clue for the identity of the gunmen.—Transocean Kuo Min.

ITALY FALLS IN LINE

Favouring The "Eastern Pact"

Rome, July 13. By one of the most dramatic changes of front in recent history, Italy has swung from vigorous opposition to support of the British standpoint regarding an "Eastern Locarno Pact."

The newspapers, until mid-day condemned the proposal, but the afternoon journals had to eat their words when a semi-official communiqué stated that the Italian attitude to the proposal was one of favourable consideration.

The change was due to the explanation of the British Ambassador to Rome, Sir Eric Drummond, to the Italian Premier, Signor Mussolini concerning the outcome of the visit of the French Foreign Minister M. Louis Barthou, to London.

Moreover, Sir John Simon's speech revealed a similarity in the outlook between Great Britain and Italy regarding Russia, whose entry to the League of Nations Italy has always desired.—Reuter.

A ROMANTIC PAST

Recalled At Ayrshire Pageant

(Special Air Mail Service)

Edinburgh, June 27.

Close on 80,000 people from various parts of Scotland—and even from America and the Continent—saw Ayrshire's lovely pageant.

Three thousand performers danced and cheered and carried principals shoulder-high on Saturday night as the audience of 12,000—the second 12,000 crowd of the day—left the Dam Park, Ayr, after the final performance of the Pageant, which was carried through with a smoothness and precision almost unbelievable in such a vast production.

The Pageant of Ayrshire has been a definite triumph—a triumph contributed to, in no small measure by the success of the broadcasting facilities arranged by "The Bulletin." It has appealed not only to its "ain folk" but to Scotland and to visitors from America and the Continent.

Financial Optimism

And with receipts in the region of £10,000 the organisers are equally optimistic of the Pageant on the financial side.

"It was a very big undertaking, because we did not know what it would cost," said Colonel T. C. Dunlop, chairman of the Pageant Council, who officially opened the final performance. "We are indebted to those who came forward as guarantors, but with the wonderful audiences we have had, we hope that they will not be called upon to pay anything."

The two audiences of 12,000 on Saturday was the crowning triumph of the Pageant, and brought the official attendance figure for the week up to 79,000—and that quite exclusive of the 30,000 school children who saw the dress rehearsals.

Call to Scottish Youth

"A call to the youth of Scotland to-day," was the description given to the Pageant, witnessed by those 110,000 people by the Earl of Glasgow, who opened the afternoon performance on Saturday.

"We find in the world to-day that the right of men to worship God in their own way, and their right to speak their minds freely, are being challenged as of old," said the Earl of Glasgow. "I venture to think that the moral of the Pageant is a call to the youth of Scotland to remember that their forefathers with a grim spirit of independence and determination, fought and died for liberty, and that same liberty is as important for men and women in this country to-day as it was in these old times."

Week of Prosperity

The Pageant has meant more than the reliving of pages of Ayrshire's glorious and romantic past. It has been a magnificent boost for its products and its attractions; it brought crowds flocking to Ayr, almost choking its streets, and filling shops, tea-rooms, and cafes—in a word, it brought prosperity to the town.

FUGITIVE LOVERS

Fine Picture At
The Queen's"Fugitive Lovers" the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer melodrama now showing at the Queen's Theatre brings a new and exciting form of entertainment to the screen.At Richard Boleslavsky's brilliant direction, the story of romance and adventure aboard a great Greyhound bus bound west from New York City is thrilling from the first "shot" to the last smashing sequence.Madge Evans is a chorus girl, Lettie, who boards the bus in New York to escape the advances of her show's backer, one "Legs" Caffee, played by Nat Pendleton, gangster and braggart.As the bus passes a penitentiary on its first night out of New York
an unjustly convicted prisoner, Porter, played by Robert Montgomery, leads a jail break and manages to hide under the canvas luggage-tarpaulin. Having access to an unlocked bag he changes into civilian clothing and later enters the bus as a passenger.While the spectator is on the edge of his seat, palpitating with the excitement of the realistic prison break, the story sweeps on with even greater intensity.Withington, a jovial salesman-passenger, marvels at the likeness of Porter's suit to one of his own, while "Legs" plots revenge against the young man who has gained the affection Lettie. "Legs" discovers the escaped convict's identity about the time that Daly, played by C. Henry Gordon, prison official sleuth in pursuit, is at hand. The tender love story, in juxtaposition with the excitement of the manhunt, is guaranteed to make even the most phlegmatic audience rise in their chairs and cheer.Robert Montgomery has never given a truer performance than he does as the escaped convict, Madge Evans, growing more beautiful with each picture, against proves herself an exceptionally fine actress. The rest of the brilliant cast deserve equal praise.That of "Trigger Hicks," the semi-wild mountain girl in "Spitfire," a picturization of the Broadway success, "Trigger."In this picture Miss Hepburn stakes her reputation for versatility in a pure character portrayal, the dialogue and idiomatic language of the Carolina mountains being in complete variance with anything she had ever done.DIARY OF LOCAL

"SPITFIRE"

Katharine Hepburn
In The LeadThanks to Katharine Hepburn, movie fans may no longer complain about a lack of originality in picture themes.Whereas many other stars have been content to follow the beaten path, and after scoring a success in one picture, make those that follow it mere carbon copies, so to speak, this ultra-brilliant screen luminary, has insisted upon giving the public something entirely new and different with each release.She was first seen as the somewhat neurotic daughter of a madman, her next characterisation was that of a dashing athlete, an avi-atrix who had no time for love. In her third picture she portrayed an actress and she followed this with the never-to-be-forgotten charac-terisation of Jo March in "Little Women." It would indeed be difficult to conceive of four more diversified roles, and since the last-named picture was released, fans have been wondering if Miss Hepburn would follow with pictures of a similar type, or once more strike out for new fields to conquer.The decision was left entirely to her, whether to accept one of the easier roles offered and rest secure in fame that was already hers, or to accept a more difficult role and gamble on a chance for an even greater accomplishment. Her decision was a courageous one,
selecting as she did the most difficult of all the roles offered her.

ORIENT EXPRESS

Heather Angel And
Norman ForsterThe most important development in motion pictures recently is the tendency to place all-star casts in stories that are particularly written for a number of outstanding characters instead of placing single stellar personalities in stories that centre around the person.Such is the opinion of Ralph Morgan, screen and stage character of many years' experience, who has recently completed a role in "Orient Express," the Fox film with Heather Angel and Norman Forster that comes on Tuesday to the King's Theatre."It is not only that I personally enjoy all-star cast screen plays
instead of single-star production," Morgan says, "but many of my friends and acquaintances, both in and out of the show business, hold the same view."

KAY FRANCIS

SCORES

The House On 56th StreetThe Alhambra presents this week-end a human drama which is well up to the standard of that theatre. The story is laid around Kay Francis, who plays the part of Peggy a chorus girl of the NewYork Follies of 1905. This chorus girl marries into an exclusive American family. Because of her charm she finally overcomes her mother-in-law's objections to her intrusion. When everything should settle down to, "and they were married and lived happily ever after," dark tragedy breaks in. Peggy is condemned to twenty years in prison for the supposed murder of one of her former admirers. By an ingenious method of flashing newspaper headlines across her prison cell, we see twenty years of history pass. Her husband is killed in the war, and Peggy comes out to face the world alone. There are some tense scenes as we see Peggy rising to the occasion as a card sharp, using knowledge that she learnt.The scenes shift as Peggy meets her own daughter across the table, and avoids for her the tragedy that wrecked her own life. The centre of the whole picture is Kay Francis, and if anything she looks more fascinating as the mature woman of forty, than as the young chorus girl.

ScoresThe screen version of Richard that the film catches the superb romantic spirit of the novel.Helen Twelvetrees portrays the role of the beautiful Viennese girl opposite Hugh Williams, an Englishman who is a newcomer to the American screen. Both players have their greatest screen roles and reports indicate that their characterization in this film will lead to stardom.The film relates the story of how these two people fall in love amid the languorous beauty of the island of Capri. Cruelly separated by war, their efforts to find each other are in vain, and each gives up the quest as hopeless. Years later, each returns to the scene of their first meeting, Capri, with the hope of finding at least the solace of a glorious memory. Fate plays a hand, and their chance reunion culminates the glorious story of undying love.Although this is Hugh Williams' first appearance in an American-made film, he has already enjoyed an enviable career as a stage and screen star in his native England.

American stage audiences had their first glimpse of Williams in the role of Captain Stanhope in "Journey's End." In support of Williams and Miss Twelvetrees, the cast boasts of such names as connection with next year's Naval

Lord of the Admiralty, the Ameri-

diplomatic and naval experts.This is probably the last occasion on which the Prime Minister will participate in the prelimi-taken by Mr. Baldwin when he goes to Loughborough.Last week the British naval experts handed to their American colleagues a Memorandum embodying certain increases in the number of units, and in tonnage, comtemplated by the British Admiralty for the protection of the overseas Empire routes. These increases related mainly to the cruiser and destroyer categories.In Case of Failure Only Washington—Despite the increases in the American Navy provided for under the Vinson Law—expressed surprise at these suggested increases, and Mr. Davis conveyed to Mr. MacDonald the impressions of the American Government on the point.It was then suggested by Mr.

MacDonald that the British naval increases tabulated in the Memorandum did not constitute an absolute demand, but would come into full operation only if the present naval limitation agreements (the 1921 Washington and the 1930 London Treaties) were to lapse without being superseded by a new limitation agreement; or, in other words, if next year's Naval Conference ended in failure.

Around the Courts

"NOT QUITE SANE"

Formerly charged with driving car No. 233, belonging to Mr. M. T. Fung, without a driver's licence and without the owner's permission, Henry Wong, alias Chan Pok Kin, alias Charlie Chan, 18 years, was again brought before Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistrate's Court on Saturday when three further charges of thefts were preferred against him.

The new charges were: (A) The larceny of a watch, the property of Mr. Robert Umnuss, at the A.P.C. Building, on July 5.

(B) Obtaining a pair of shoes by false pretences from Mr. W. S. Drake, manager of Messrs. Gordon's Ltd., by pretending that he was an employee of the China Light and Power Company, and.

(C) Obtaining a pair of shoes from Messrs. Gordon's by false pretences.

Inspector J. Murphy stated that accused had been swindling people in the Colony for sometime and that other charges would be brought against him.

When asked by Mr. Hamilton whether his son was in a sound mental condition Mr. Chan, the father, said that his son was not quite sane. He did not know of the existence of Mr. R. C. Mitchell who was said by defendant to have been supporting him, thus enabling him to buy a car.

Mr. Hamilton convicted the accused on the car charge and on the charge of a theft of a pair of shoes. He will be sentenced next Saturday.

"ARRESTED ON SUSPICION"

A Chinese named Lee Wing, was convicted by Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistrate's Court on Saturday morning, on a charge of aiding and abetting another Chinese named Loo Lam in stealing a purse, containing 15 cents from the pocket of a pedestrian named Lee Yan, and was sentenced to one month's hard labour. The accomplice Loo Lam, who pleaded guilty, was remanded for 24 hours.

The incident occurred on the prays of Connaught Road West. A district watchman observed the first accused Lee Wing walking on the complainant's left and the second Loo Lam on the right. Loo Lam, it was alleged, impeded the unwary complainant, while Lee Wing lifted the purse.

Loo Lam pleaded from the dock that he was arrested merely on suspicion.

A MUI TSAI CASE

Chinese Woman Charged with Not Registering

Ho Yi, aged 38 years, a married woman, of No. 2 Temple Street, first floor, Yaumati, was charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Police Court on Saturday morning, with having kept an unregistered mui-tai, named Ng Ying Ping, alias Chow Lin, and with assaulting the girl.

Sub-Inspector H. W. Fraser, of the Secretariat of Chinese Affairs stated that last Friday morning, the mui-tai reported to the Police at No. 2 Police Station, saying that she was an unregistered mui-tai, and that she had been assaulted by her mistress and bitten on both arms by her son.

The accused woman denied the charge and said that she did not ill-treat the mui-tai at all.

For further investigation, the case was remanded until 2.30 p.m. this afternoon, and the accused's bail was set at $500.

BANISHEE RETURNS

Arrested and Sent to Gaol

Before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court on Saturday morning, Chan Hung, a returned banishee, pleaded guilty to a charge of returning to the Colony, before the term of his banishment had expired.

It was stated by the prosecuting officer that the accused was banished from the Colony in 1929 for larceny, for a period of ten years. Recently the accused was seen by a Chinese detective, who arrested him in Shanghai Street, Yaumati, last Friday evening.

When, being questioned by his worship regarding his reason for returning to the Colony, the accused replied that he came back to see a friend. A sentence of one year's hard labour passed.

HUGE HAUL OF OPIUM

Principal Tenant Heavily Fined
Several Chinese named Yip Tak Chot, Yip Yik Sang, Sam Yee Po, Yip Ko Ching, Tong Sul and Tong

For all described as tenants, appeared before Mr. Hamilton at the Central Police Court on Saturday morning, on a charge of unlawful possession of 1,900 taels of raw opium.

It was stated by the Police that the first accused Yip Tak Chot, was the principal tenant, who possessed the raw opium in No. 28, Yuen Chow Street.

The first accused pleaded guilty and took all the responsibility, and was fined $5,000 or in default, 12 months' hard labour, while the rest were discharged with a caution.

The officer stated that the place where the raid was made, was a newly-established business dealing in fire-wood. The opium was found hidden in hollows in five pine logs.

For the theft of eight pigs from a vegetable garden in Shek Ku Lung Village, Kowloon City, Chan Kwai, a 38-year old stone-breaker, and Tse Yee, a 59-year old unemployed, were each sentenced to two months' hard labour by Mr. Wynne-Jones at Kowloon Magistrate's Court on Saturday.

Sentence of one month's hard labour was imposed by Mr. Wynne-Jones at Kowloon Magistrate's Court on Saturday on Benito Ornela, a 19-year old Filipino, for stowing away on the R.M.S. Empress of Russia from Manila.

An expulsion order was also made against the defendant who, it was stated, had been convicted of a similar offence in September last year.

BOOK REVIEW

Suppressing Communist Banditry in China—by Tang Leang Li published by China United Press, Shanghai, 1934.

This book records the history of the communist movements in China. We are told how the Russian influence was introduced by Sun Yat Sen, and then we trace its course through the years following the war. When Sun Yat Sen dies the story is taken up by the efforts of Russia to take over control of the Kuomintang. In 1927 the excesses caused by the Russians resulted in their suppression; and in the closing up of the consulates. The next seven years are concerned with the attempts of the Central Government to suppress the communist armies.

One gets so used to reading continually about the communist situation in China, that one may be forgiven if interest flags, in newspapers. But here we have in one volume the history of these years as seen through the eyes of the Nanking government.

Mr. Tang who received his education in England, and who writes directly in English, has collected for the future historian some very interesting facts and figures.

It is almost a necessity of governments now-a-days to have official historians, and undoubtedly Mr. Tang is very capable of fulfilling this role on behalf of the Central Government.

We hope later to see from his pen the compilation of China's official history through these momentous years.

The book is well illustrated.

AN OLD TROUPER

Concert at Club de Recreo

An excellent concert was given at the Club de Recreo on Saturday night in aid of an "Old Trouper", whose family has fallen on hard times.

There was a large gathering present, the hall being practically packed, and a full and entertaining programme was given, lasting from 8.15 p.m. to well over midnight.

The Fred and His Pals orchestra provided the major share of the music, both as overtures to the two sections of the programme and as individual items.

One of the most popular items was a Comedy Duo by Mr. J. Ferguson and Mr. J. C. Greenham, with Ray Remond at the piano. An instrumental trio comprised of Mr. E. Aves, Professor F. Gonzalez and Miss Natalie Resario was very well received, being encored many times.

Mr. Wm. Hall

We regret to record the death of Mr. William Hall which occurred at his residence, No. 3, Mosque Street, at 4.30 p.m. yesterday.

The late Mr. Hall was the principal of Messrs. Hall & Hall, Architects and was 43 years of age. Educated at the Diocesan Boys' School, he was among the first batch of graduates of the University of Hong Kong, taking his degree in Civil Engineering and Surveying. He was later articled to Mr. A. Abdoolrahman.

The deceased retired from business in October last year and his passing at a comparatively early age will be regretted by a large circle of friends. He leaves a mother, wife, son and daughter and four brothers.

The funeral takes place this evening, passing the Monument at 5.30 p.m.

added a serious touch to the evening's entertainment, with several pianoforte solos, including Chopin's E-flat major and Mendelssohn's Prelude.

A delightful touch was introduced by the Aloha Serenaders, whose renditions of Hawaiian selections, in both sections of the programme, were among the most popular items of the programme.

Other interesting numbers were songs by Miss E. P. Aves, violin solo by Professor Gonzalez, and a rhapsody solo by Mr. Ray Remond.

Great credit is due to Professor Gonzalez and Mr. Gus d'Aquino, who organised the concert, and to the members of the club for their splendid support, due to which it is estimated that over $300 will be available for their valued old friend, "the old Troupier".

SPEECH OF SIR JOHN SIMON

Varying Reception In Paris

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright))

Paris, July 14.
Sir John Simon's speech on Friday in the House of Commons meets with objections in a certain section of the French Press which does not take kindly to the idea of granting Germany equality of status within the framework of the proposed Eastern Locarno Pact.

"Le Journal" writes "It seems like a bad dream when one learns from Sir John Simon that the Eastern Locarno pact, instead of affording protection against Germany, is actually intended to bring about equality of armaments."

The paper characterises the pact as a bill of exchange drawn on Germany's and Russia's faith which, according to the semi-official "Petit Parisien" has now been officially approved by England—Transocean Kuo Min.

ITALIAN ATTITUDE

Milan, July 14.
The Italian acceptance of the newly revised Eastern Locarno Pact as briefly outlined by an official communiqué on Friday, was amplified on Saturday by an extensive article in Mussolini's "Popolo D'Italia".

The old plan of the Eastern Locarno Pact, writes the paper, with possible anti-German orientation has experienced a radical transformation during the London visit of Barthou so that it is now a completely new document. The present form of the Pact provides not only the guaranteed support by Russia to France in case of an attack by Germany and by France to Russia in the same contingency but a guarantee to Germany by Russia in case of a French attack and by France to Germany in case of a Russian onslaught. As a second major point, the protocol has the value of being a "de facto" recognition of equal status so long demanded by Germany. Thus the Pact can also overcome the ground on which Germany withdrew from the League of Nations.

The inspired editorial concludes by saying "our standpoint meets that of England in the sense that we assume no new obligations beyond those contained in the original Pact."—Transocean Kuo Min.

NEW ELEMENT OF HOPE

London, June 14.
In concluding yesterday's foreign affairs debate, during which Sir John Simon had made his important statement in regard to the proposed Eastern European mutual guarantee pact, Captain Anthony Eden expressed the view that the result of the recent London conversations on that subject would be "to give a new element of hope to an anxious situation."

The "Times" view seems to have been widely shared both in the Commons and in the Press. In fact one paper, the "News Chronicle," remarks that the policy expounded by the Foreign Secretary was supported by the Commons "with warmth and real unanimity which it has not shown for many a long year."

The newspaper gives its own warm support to the policy. In particular it notes Sir John Simon's statement that the new policy implies participation on equal terms of Germany and adds, "To secure this ought not to be difficult. Britain has agreed France has agreed, Russia has agreed. Sir John Simon was able to read Signor Mussolini's emphatic assent to the new policy."

"On what grounds, asks the newspaper, should Germany stand aloof from the agreement which offers to her exactly the same honourable security that it offers to France to Poland and to Russia."

Dealing with the same point the "Manchester Guardian" says "Germany cannot with any show of reason stand outside the pact which is by definition equal for both sides. If like Soviet Russia she should make a journey to Geneva it cannot in any sense be thought a journey to Canossa. If she can be convinced that there is no intrigue against her and that the proposals are honestly intended, she may, like Italy, perceive that she gains nothing by refusing to accept them."

The "Times" thinks that the scheme undoubtedly connotes in Sir John Simon's words an "extension of the system of insurance," and the Journal places emphasis on Signor Mussolini's remark that it offers fresh possibilities in the field of limitation or reduction of armaments and further implies recognition of equality of rights. It believes that from the beginning of regional agreements the general system of security may gradually be established under which reduction of national armaments will almost automatically follow.

THE ACID TEST
The "Daily Herald" says, "In no circumstances can any further weakening of the League be tolerated and by this test every proposal for regional pacts must be judged. Assurances now given suggest that the proposed Eastern Locarno Pact does satisfactorily pass this acid test and that it will genuinely be a reinforcement and not weakening of the League's authority. Therefore the labour party will welcome it."

The "Daily Telegraph" regards the proposal as a "more favourable turn to the international wheel." That Chancellor Hitler has retreated from all reference to the pact proposal during his Reichstag speech last night encourages the hope that the scheme, an outline of which was communicated to the German Government on Thursday by the British Ambassador in Berlin, is already undergoing thorough examination which was then promised. Meanwhile the German Press comment seems influenced by subjective suspicions of the pact proposal in its original form rather than by objective analysis of the scheme as it emerged from the London conversations. This preliminary reaction is understood and discounted here where it is believed that later time in the light of Sir John Simon's has permitted fuller consideration and that Signor Mussolini's approval views so far expressed will be considerably modified. To those who wish Germany well the proposals as outlined seem at least to offer to her a prospect infinitely preferable to that which must face self-isolated and bitter Germany embarking on a rearmament policy she can ill-afford and which must inevitably nourish guarded and uneasy suspicions among her neighbours.

INTEGRITY OF BELGIUM
During his speech yesterday the Foreign Secretary remarked that "Integrity of this territory of Belgium is no less vital to the interest and safety of Britain to-day than it has been in times past." On this point the "Times" comments that the "fortunes of this island have always been linked with that of Western Europe and in recent times it has become an established principle of British policy that safety of neither country of the continent is vital to us as that of our own. No permanent deviation from that policy is even compatible with self-preservation."

"MY GOD"—RELIGION OR BLASPHEMY

Interesting Sermon By The Rt. Rev. Bishop Hall

A padre in the Rocky Mountains came to a settlement where there had been no Christian service since the founding of the settlement, ten years before. The school was turned into a temporary church. Men, women and children came to the service. To the children this was a new experience. One lad of twelve asked his father afterwards, "Father, you thrashed me for swearing last week—but that man kept doing it all the time." All the lad knew of "God" and "Jesus Christ" was as words grown up men used when they were angry.

It is a strange thing that men should seem so to delight to turn the words of religion—"God"—"Good Lord"—"Jesus Christ"—into oaths. And yet not strange, but rather further evidence that God is and that God is love. As this love leaves no man alone, so no man in his inmost soul can escape the haunting sense of God. What their lives disown their lips acknowledge. Like Mr. Bernard Shaw and other caustic critics of our faith to-day, though they say there is no God, they cannot in their writings leave God alone.

It is not strange then that the phrase "My God" should be as common on the lips of the blasphemer as the believer, for God is as near to both. In the drinking bout and in the conversation of those who must spice with oaths the dullness of their wits, the name of God is heard again and again—as though He would use the lips of those who reject Him to remind their hearts that He is and He is God.

"Stars or Street Lamps"

The late Geoffrey Studdert Kennedy describes how one night he saw stars when he bumped into a lamp-post. It was just after the war, when he had mixed much with men in the trenches—he found himself exclaiming as they did so often, "My God." Then he stopped and thought furiously, Stars—a street lamp—God. Most men, he thought, see God in the beauty of the stars, but there is more of God in the homely light of the street lamp. For the street lamp is the result of men working together to make the world a more friendly place, and if Jesus is the heart of God, brotherhood, friendship, light on the common ways of life is God's work.

Since Bethlehem we know God is better seen in street lamps than in stars, for we know Him in Jesus the Big Brother of the world, leading men in ways of co-operation and mutual service.

May thoughtless exclamations lead many others to such deep thoughts of God and of His ways "My" religion.

"My God" is often the unconscious expression of imperfect religion. Just as the ignorant Chinese villager may have a favourite idol, so many educated people, are content with a God of their own hearts' fashioning. He reflects their desires as much as the carved image ridiculed by Isaiah. You will remember the words, "He chooses a tree that will not rot." With part he makes himself an image, with part he makes a fire and says, "Aha, I am warm." The image warms his heart, the rest of the wood warms his body. But the God is of his making; it is indeed for him "My God." Now in these enlightened days we do not carve our ideas of God in wood, but we carve them equally deeply in our minds. Again and again men and women say to me, "My idea of God is this or that." Little do they realise that, like the idol-maker of Isaiah's day, they are warming their hearts before an illusion. Because for them it is "My idea of God," they look on it as they do on all their possessions, and are most unwilling to change their idea for any other.

"No Man," says St. John, "hath seen God at any time," and yet we each think we can fashion our own idea of God and be content with it.

"A Convenient God."

Notice this about this "My God" religion, which is far too common among us to-day. The God we fashion is nearly always a convenient God. It we dislike mixing with the rather ridiculous folk who run our churches, the God we fashion is an Unpersonal Alot. Kindness, who does not worry us about such details. If we are rather timid folk, God is the great protector who is always on our side. If we are Great Lovers of our Country, the God we fashion has British or German or American well-being as his first concern. Have we not heard the phrase, "God's own country?"

"No man," said St. John, "hath seen God at any time." This "My God" religion is simply wish fulfilment. We make God in the image of our own desires. St. John goes on the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him," and that revelation, St. Paul says, is an utterly offensive notion, a stone of stumbling, to religious people, and folly to the intellectuals, who make God after their own religious or intellectual desires.

No man could ever have imagined the crucified carpenter to be God. It took the miracle of the resurrection to convince even those who loved Him. This is not in any sense "My God." It is an uncomfortable, incredible, unthinkable God-notion. By its sheer impossibility it proclaims its own truth.

"God-forsaken." Think after all how incredible it is. "My God, my God," this carpenter cries, "why hast thou forsaken me?" Was there ever in history a time when the world was more God forsaken? It was a tragedy of human goodness which was not quite good enough. Galphas, the prudent father of his people, allows it to happen for the sake of peace. "It is expedient," he said.

Those worthy men of religion, descendants of Elijah, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Amos and Hosea, the trustees of the purest religion the world has known outside Christ, those worthy men, so zealous for God's majesty, were hurt to the core and stirred to a fury of indignation at this ignorant carpenter claiming that God the all Holy, majestic, transcendent, was in a special sense his Father. Pilate, the just ruler, quick to detect prejudice, hating religious fanaticism, tries his best. Finally his democratic principles betray his own judgement. He lets the people choose. Their choice prevailed. Then all the cruelty of Roman law was wreaked upon the defenceless body—while the pathetic tragedy, of man's weakness, prejudice, blindness breaks the heart of this lover of men.

So there is darkness indeed. The strain to bear the physical pain is so great that there is no corner of consciousness left where He can remain God conscious. "My God, my God," cries the broken heart, "why hast thou forsaken me?" Why must I face all this alone?

"Unexpected Divinity" Ten days later the human heart cries out again "My God." It is in the upper room where for the second time they have met in secret for fear of the Jews. They have met with hope and a trembling eagerness in their hearts, because of what happened there the week before, when they had been convinced He was with them again speaking to them, visible in a strange new way to eye and heart. One only is not so moved—Thomas had not been with them. He scoffs at the imaginings of over-strained emotions. He comes, cool and collected, to withstand this hysteria. And then he, too, is on his knees, and his heart cries out, "My Lord and my God." Wounded hands, wounded feet, wounded side, all the marks of his final failure, all the marks of the weakness of love against violence and pride and envy. These are the insignia he carries—no crown, no orb, as one who holds the world in his hand, no rod to strike when his anger is aroused—only the wounds of a criminal death; and Thomas, the sceptic, the common-sense man, calls out, "My Lord and my God." This time the words "My God" are not because this was his thought of God, or his desire as to what God might be. He had dreamed rather of a God who would drive the Romans into the sea, not a God who proclaims himself by the sheer unexpectedness of his appeal.

This is the heart of the Christian faith: against common sense, against the surface experiences of life, against what the reason would consider a worthy conception of God, the Christian says, "God has spoken." At Bethlehem as a babe, in Nazareth as a carpenter, in Galilee as the forgiving friend, in Calvary as suffering man, in the upper room as "The Risen Lord." This is not the God men desire or imagine or think reasonable. But surely, unexpected though it be—it is what we need. It is an answer to life's deepest questions:

an answer snatched out of the black darkness of evil and despair. We cannot understand how God can be like this—but if He is, if He has come to us in Jesus to build the world anew in love out of the ruins of men's pride, then indeed there is meaning, hope, and joy beyond our dreaming in our human life.

A SAD BUT FRUITFUL EVENING

French Consul General Express Thanks To Local Press

A very large gathering including H.E. the G.O.C., Major-General O. C. Borrett, the Colonial Secretary, Hon. Sir Thomas Southorn and members of the Legislative Council, were present on Saturday morning at the residence of the Consul General for France, Mon. G. Dufauré de La Frade, when a reception in commemoration of the storming and taking of the Bastille was held.

A striking tribute was paid to the English press of Hongkong and their editors by the Consul General for France.

Saturday was the 145 anniversary of the declaration of the French Republic and was celebrated all over the world in French Colonies in a similar manner.

The official's eulogy was directed at the handling of the recent reports on the Paris riots.

"Commercial depression, millions of men out of work against their own will, threat of starvation in a world which is over-flooded by wealth of every kind, uncertainty of what to-morrow brings us, inability, till now, of the leaders, to adjust properly two opposite factors of our modern life; the increase in number of world population, and, at the same time, the decrease of employment of human labour caused by use of machinery, all that has given, here and there, origin to troubles and riots and entertained everywhere a dangerous state of popular ferment," he said.

"My Gratitude" "In this regard, the evening of February 6 in Paris was the saddest, but perhaps most fruitful, event in the history of the Third Republic. It would be painful to me to describe it, but I deem it a duty to express my gratitude to the English Press of Hongkong for having so tactfully, so broad-mindedly analysed and understood the character and the meaning of that dreadful night. British editors have accurately perceived in this demonstration, the re-awakening of the French people, this honest and healthy people, who like the well-finished work, the pretty work, the work made with clean hands and conscientious heart and, as the French workman says, 'L'ouvrage bien fait, la belle ouvrage.' by love and courtship towards his work, rendering feminine a word that grammar, the awful French grammar, has condemned to be, a masculine word, because labour is generally hard and severe, and I may add, were, at this season, sweated labour."

The events of February last were in fact the reaction of a sound body against dangerous disease and the subsequent happenings have shown that the people of France still remain, as the Roman said, "Mens sana in corpore sano."

"This explains why they were as prompt to demonstrate as to listen to the wise advice of old noble statesmen such as Presidents Poincaré and Doumergue, who always respond to the call of the country and abandon their quiet and lovely country houses to face, in spite of their age, the strain and disappointments of Public life. As Poincaré did in 1926, President Doumergue in 1934, devotes himself to restoring order, imposing discipline, and, through more paternal words and his well-known smile makes all sacrifices, formerly refused, acceptable and accepted."

G.O.C. Replies.

H.E. Major-General Borrett, replying with a toast to the President of France, said that as friends of France it was a great privilege to be present to offer congratulations on the anniversary of the National fete and to take part in the celebration.

HONG KONG, JULY 16, 1934.

HONG KONG INDUSTRIES

It is possible that at some future date the question of Hong Kong Industries may become a subject of discussion between this port and Canton. It is therefore interesting to speculate upon aspects of the problem as they may appear to various of those interested.

There is first of all the manufacturer. He sets up an enterprise hoping to have a good return upon his capital. His enterprise immediately affects others than himself. Perhaps the most important of these are the workmen. If a manufacturer can obtain a market for his products, he is benefitting a number of families. Now here there are two markets to consider for the moment: the Hong Kong market and the South China market.

That Hong Kong industries are not by any means an excess of production is shown in the manufacture of shoes. At present a small country in Europe, Czechoslovakia, supplies a great number of shoes to the world, including Hong Kong. It is obvious that sales in Hong Kong should support workmen in Hong Kong, rather than workmen in a country which does not interest the British Empire. The matter is economical to this extent, that the consumer does go where he can get the best value for his money. Is Hong Kong then a big enough market for a local industry? Probably not, if it must be run on such an efficient scale as some universal industries.

We then are driven into the second aspect. "Why do industries which are financed by Chinese capital, set up in Hong Kong rather than in Canton?" The answer to this is of course, safety. We need make no excuses for raising this aspect, because the leaders of Canton have always recognised this point. In fact they invariably invest the bulk of their money in Hong Kong. It is largely due to the influx of money from Canton, that the whole problem, as to why the two places cannot get together, arises.

Probably the greatest obstacle to a working arrangement, is that Hong Kong being a free port, control would be difficult. It would be possible to import into Hong Kong, and to re-export into China under local marks. The question then becomes more definite, but perhaps also more closely connected to the world economic situation.

In other words, Hong Kong in order to arrive at a working arrangement with Canton, would have to protect itself. The Imperial Conference, by leaving Hong Kong more or less outside of its calculations, tacitly admitted that the port is a part of China. It would therefore be necessary to explore what benefit Canton would obtain or lose, if some arrangement were come to with Hong Kong. There is no doubt that industry would develop under private individuals in Hong Kong, as it never could under government control in Canton, where through no fault of anyone's the legislation is subject to fluctuations, and is not continuous.

Probably the most direct advantages would be obtained by those monied people in Canton, who hesitate to invest there, and who keep their money tied up, now that real estate values have sunk.

Taking the matter all around, the Chinese people would be the largest beneficiaries. There is increasing unemployment in both towns, which only some form of industrial development founded upon advantages derived from trade co-operation on either side of the frontier can relieve.

FIRE ON S.S. HOPSANG

Coal Bunker Outbreak

Fire broke out on board the S.S. Hopsang last evening while she was on her voyage from Canton to Hongkong. Fortunately little damage was done as the fire was solely confined to the coal bunker.

The steamer left Canton at 2 p.m. and four hours later smoke was seen coming out from the coal bunker. Vigorous efforts were immediately made by the officers and crew to stamp out the fire in which they more or less succeeded, and, as a precaution against any further developments, a message was sent to the local fire brigade asking for assistance, at the same time notifying the place where she would be anchored and the time of her arrival.

When the vessel steamed into harbour at 9 p.m., a fireboat, under the charge of Mr. H. T. Brooks, Superintendent of the Fire Brigade, was already awaiting her and no sooner had she anchored at buoy E8, the fireboat had begun its work. Owing to the position of the outbreak, however, the work of the firemen was somewhat hampered and gas masks had to be brought into use. With this equipment several firemen pluckily descended into the bunker and safety put out the fire without any serious damage.

The S.S. Hopsang which has a tonnage of 1,359 is owned by the Indo-China Steam Navigation Co. for whom Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co. are the local agents. She arrived from Tsingtao on July 13 and was expected to leave for Tientsin to-day, but whether her departure will be delayed by this incident or not is not yet known. Captain D. S. Petrick is the master of the steamer.

MISSING AT KOWLOON BAY

Believed To Have Been Drowned

The chief engineer of the S.S. Shannendoah, now lying in Kowloon Bay, reported to the police yesterday that a member of the crew, Norman Millington, a Eurasian and native of Singapore went for a swim off the side of the steamer and had not yet been found. It is believed that the man might have been drowned, as so far nothing has yet been heard of him.

If Gossip We Must

By PRUDENCE

The interest taken by the Chinese in the race meetings at Happy Valley is well demonstrated in this picture.

The matcheds that stood on the Lido site at Repulse Bay are now all demolished, and consequently many keen swimmers are deprived of bathing facilities until such time as the road to the new beaches is ready.

I wonder if any of these shell-less ones will be interested in the discovery I made last week-end that a very charming little miniature Lido already exists on the other side of the harbour.

Many people go whizzing along Castle Peak road, and never find out that there is a perfectly delightful swimming pool, in the grounds of the Castle Peak Canteen.

I chanced along the other day and found several Hong Kong people there; but the place is not yet spoilt by overcrowding, since very few know about it.

The pool is charmingly planned under shady trees in the garden.

The water is fresh, and clear as crystal, and quite deep enough for diving; yet it is a good place for children too, since several flights of steps lead into the water, and there is a concrete rim all round so that beginners can scramble out anywhere, without having to swim the full length of the pool.

The fact that changing rooms can be had at small charge, and that dainty teas are served on the terrace makes it an ideal pleasure spot.

ISLAND BAY

Another place that has sprung into favour among the shell-less is Island Bay. There one can hire a splendid little tent for the afternoon, but this place is known for its dangerous currents and is not at all a good place for children.

Big Wave Bay is the loveliest beach of all and so remote that once upon a time it was a good place to escape the crowd. Not so now, since launch picnics became popular. I went there last Saturday, and found two hundred young men and boys sporting on the sands, while launches belched forth black smoke over everything, and the noise had to be heard to be believed.

Some of these bright young sports "Hearties" ought to be suppressed.

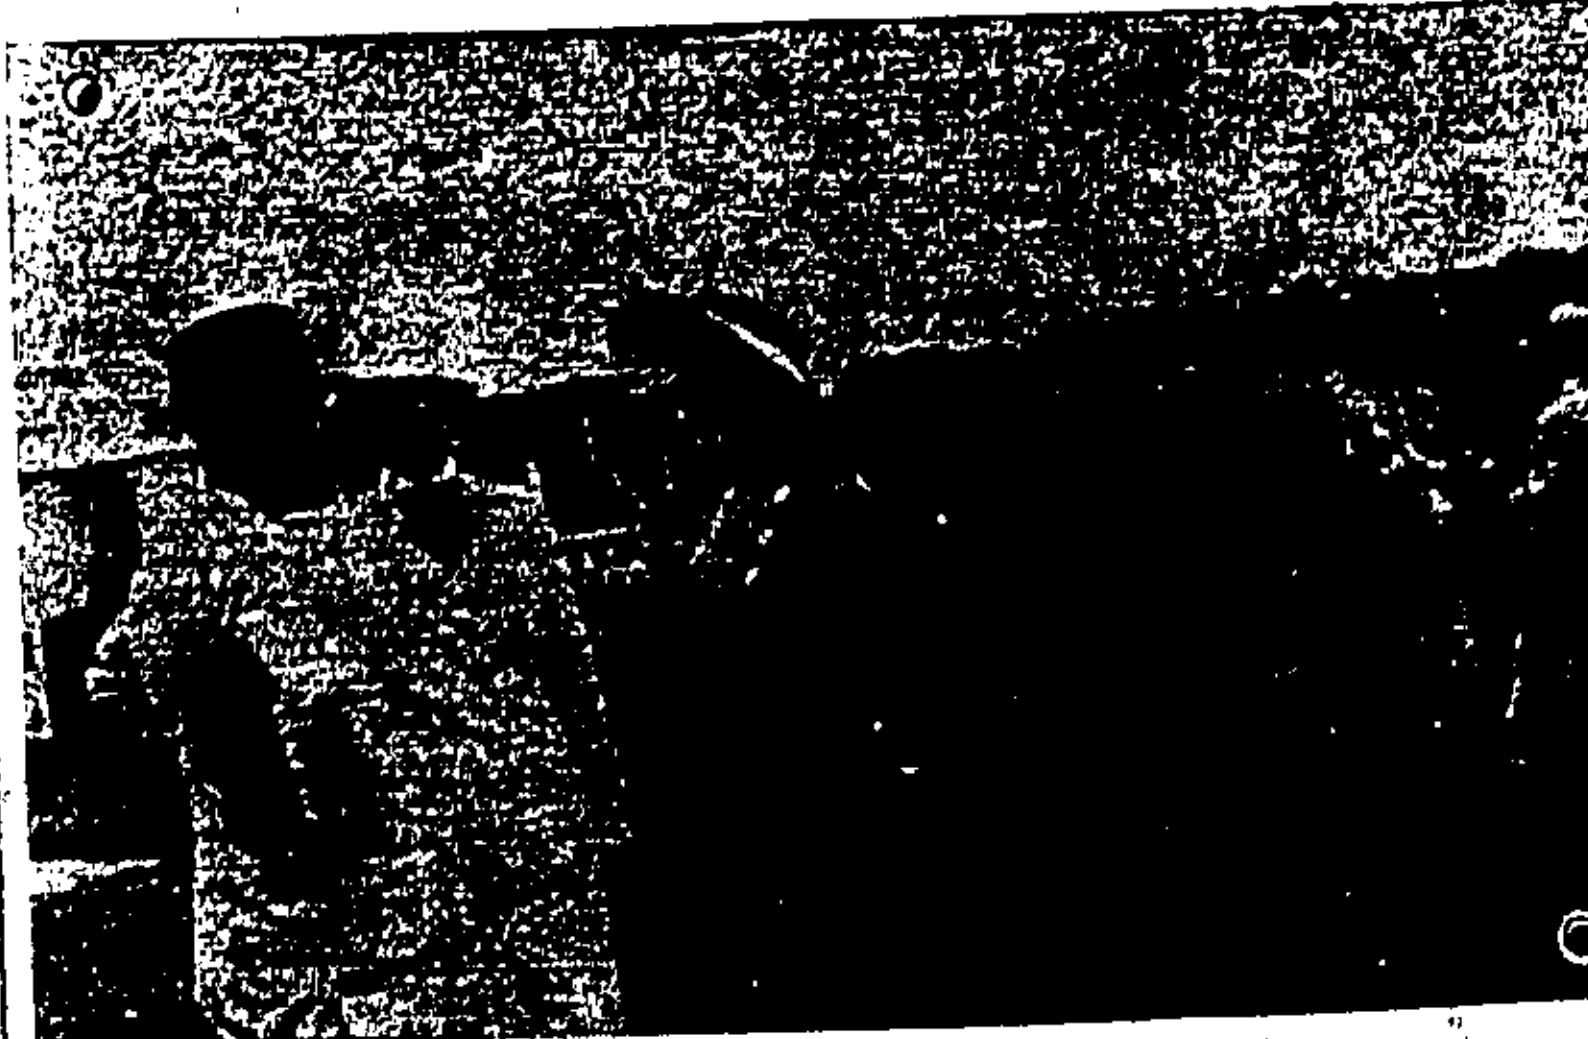

It seems a bit hard that the Shek'O residents (who spent an immense amount of money in opening up this new and remote district) have now no beach to call their own, but such is life in our overcrowded Colony, and I think they manage to avoid the worst of the crowd by swimming in the early morning (before launches appear) and again at sunset, when the interlopers have departed. Shek'O seems more popular than ever this year, and every bungalow is occupied. Sir William Shenton was one of the pioneers, and his garden is quite the most perfect of all. Mr. Dowbiggin and his daughter have a bungalow for the summer months, and Major and Mrs. Gedge have taken Mr. Baker's house (while he is away). Mr. and Mrs. Mike Turner have just moved into their newly built one, which is on a marvellous site just above the sea. Mr. and Mrs. Eric Mitchell are there of course and a great many others. The "Flannel Dance" at Shek'O Club on Saturday night was a very gay affair as usual, and everybody had big parties for the occasion.

ICED DRINKS AND COCKTAILS

Quite the nicest way of spending a hot July noon is to go out to Repulse Bay Hotel for tiffin.

Iced drinks and cocktails are served first in the Bamboo Lounge, which with its bright chintz covered chairs and white walls covered by a delicate tracery of green bamboo leaves and branches, is the prettiest and coolest spot in the Colony.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

The S.S. Benvorlich left Singapore last Friday and is due to arrive here on Wednesday.

One case of enteric fever and two of cerebro-spinal fever were reported for the 24 hours ended on July 13.

Brigadier G. B. Rowan-Hamilton, D.S.O., M.C., was among the passengers who sailed on Saturday on the Rajputana for England.

Mr. L. W. Amps, O.B.E., will give a talk on "Afghanistan" at to-morrow's meeting of the Rotary Club.

Eighty-six cases of cholera were reported in Calcutta during the week ended July 7. Hong Kong had a clean sheet in the health bulletin of Eastern Ports.

The R.M.S. Empress of Japan, which left Yokohama on Saturday evening, is due in Hong Kong on Friday at 8 a.m. She will leave for Manila on the same day at 5 p.m.

About 50 members of the Hong Kong Teachers' Association were entertained by the headmaster and staff of St. Stephen's College at Stanley on Saturday, when lawn tennis and swimming competitions were held.

According to an advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue, the annual meeting of the Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals will be held on Wednesday, July 18, at 5 p.m., in the Board Room of the Hong Kong Chamber of Commerce.

The following passengers embarked for Shanghai and beyond on the R.M.S. Empress of Russia on Friday: Mr. H. J. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Britton, Mr. W. J. Kerwick, Mr. J. G. Pilcher, Mr. G. S. Kennedy Skipton and Mr. A. W. G. Tickle.

Mrs. F. Jones won the first prize at the Craigengower Whist Drive on Saturday night, while Mr. Robinson took the Men's prize for the Men's Chess and Pte. Melford.

A cheery band plays during lunch, which most people elect to have served on the open verandah, where one looks out across the garden, to the sea and distant island beyond.

Under the able management of Mr. T. J. Mildren things go very smoothly these days, and the cooking is simply excellent. I was there last Sunday, and I thought that well-flavoured consommé, salmon mayonnaise, a spicy Madras-curry and apple tart with ice cream had never tasted so delicious as they did when consumed on a breezy verandah to the strains of the lovely "Valse Triste" of Sebelius and a gay selection from that old favourite, "Waltzes From Vienna."

Many people come out regularly. Dr. Fok Wing Kan is very fond of bringing out small parties and among others there I noticed Mr. and Mrs. Cornell (the latter looking delightfully cool in apricot silk) and Mrs. Costello who looked charming in white. Mr. Costello has just "taken over" from Mr. Stone, of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Many people are living out there, too, this month. Among them are Baron and Baroness Thierly d'Huart (I seem to remember the former as a close personal friend of the late King of the Belgians) Mme. Coudrier is there with her child, also, and Mrs. E. Boyd, Mrs. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Callow and Mr. R. H. Challinor.

Mr. Outhbertson (who has just been transferred to the Public Works Dept. from Malaya) is a new arrival.

Mrs. and Miss Cavanagh, Capt. J. Krogh-Moe, Capt. Swaffer, Mr. and Mrs. Hooley, Mrs. R. H. Brown and Mrs. C. T. de Whitehouse are also among the many visitors to Repulse Bay this month.

It is very quiet and peaceful out there in the early afternoon, but at four o'clock the crowd comes along for the tea-dance which is always gay and well-attended, and which generally ends (for the young people at any rate) with a quick change for a swim in the sea, when the band stops at sunset.

And very nice too.....!

two other lady winners while Messrs. R. Marks and Gagney won the second and third prizes in the Men's Section.

Among the passengers who left by the S.S. President Coolidge for the North on Saturday were: Lt.-Gen. and Mrs. F. Lindemann, Col. and Mrs. F. P. Noworthy; Mr. J. F. Wright; Mr. B. Moss, of Pure Cane and Molasses Company Ltd.; Mr. L. Gardener, of the staff of the Imperial Chemical Industries Ltd.; Mr. A. Brostedt, Asiatic traffic manager for the Canadian National Railways; and Mr. Emmert, wife of Mr. J. B. Emmert, attorney for Socony-Vacuum Corporation, and Master Emmert.

A very large crowd estimated at over 350 attended the Military Tombola held at the Garrison Lecture Hall on Saturday night in aid of military charities, funds of which are administered by the Ladies of the Garrison. Among the big prize-winners were the following: R. S. Randel, W. Gills, J. Newman, G. Thomas, D. McGregor, G. McCusker, R. Goutley, T. Basford, G. Smith, J. Howat, F. Reids, J. Lawrence, F. Maker, T. Stewart, J. Mathews, E. Smith, E. Williams, F. Ditley, G. Hughes, R. Bartlett, J. Logan, A. Pennock and Pte. Melford.

KAYE DON GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Sequel To Death Of His Mechanic

Douglas, Isle of Man, July 15. Kaye Don has been found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of his mechanic, Francis Taylor, who succumbed to his injuries when the car which the famous motorist was driving collided with a taxi-rap into a hedge and overturned.

Sentence was postponed until Monday. In the meantime Kaye Don has been released on bail.

Kaye Don, giving evidence in his defence, declared that the accident was due to defective steering of his car.

The judge, dealing with the point in summing up, noted the fact that Kaye Don had earlier complained to mechanics about the steering and possibly when the brakes were applied, suddenly some mechanical defect developed which made the car temporarily unsteerable.—Reuter.

SVEN HEDIN SAFE

At Urumchi

Peiping, July 15. The famous Swedish scientist and explorer, Sven Hedin, who was reported as captured by bandits at Sinkiang, is safe at Urumchi, according to advices received to-day.—Reuter.

CHEERY GREETINGS

Peiping, July 15. Sven Hedin wired from Urumchi yesterday in connection with gasoline supplies and ended with cheery greetings.

It is clear that the first report of the supposed recapture referred to his earlier experience at the hands of brigands.—Reuter.

The above news confirm the doubts about the capture entertained by Sven Hedin's sister in an interview with Reuter, and her surmise proves to be correct.

SEGREGATING THE SEXES

Amazingly Queer Suggestions!

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, July 15. After creating much ballyhoo by proposing the segregation of males from females in public places, Mr. Cheng Yat Tung, head of a harbour office bureau, issued a denial in the official "Man Kwok Yat Po" to-day stating that he has never made such a petition to the South-west Political Council, adding that he is as much amazed as the public in reading such queer suggestions.

Believe it or not, all the newspapers here published the full text of Mr. Cheng's petition to the South-west Political Council, advocating that men and women should not walk abreast in public places. If Mr. Cheng Yat Tung did not write that petition, it is a mystery how the full text could be "scanned" by the Press.

In fact, one local paper to-day published an interview with Mr. Cheng who is reported to have blamed European and American influence as the cause of moral lapses among the youths in China. He said that Rear-Admiral Chang Chi Ying started the ban on mixed bathing and that similar restraint should be applicable to people on land as on water.

Except possibly a few old-fashioned officials, this sweeping proposal is not favourably received anywhere. It is subject to considerable ridicule, and many regard this movement as nothing but cheap publicity stunts for those civil servants whose names would not otherwise be published in the newspapers.

Legislation regulating human conduct and morality cannot be enforced in the opinion of the political scientists here, who cited the failure of prohibition in the United States as a good example. Modern men and women take the position that "stagnant" parties are too dull and that if men are separated from women life would not be worth while.

TRAIN SMASH AT LAI TUNG

Heavy Damage

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, July 15. Traffic on the Canton-Hankow Railway was resumed to-day after a suspension on Friday as a result of collision between two passenger effected. Lai Tung Station is siding.

Two coaches and a locomotive were smashed, and two soldiers were severely injured. One of the soldiers is a railway guard, and the other is a disbanded private of the former 19th Route Army. Both men are not expected to recover.

The damage to the coaches and locomotive was estimated at $100,000. Even the rail was smashed during the impact, and repairs were effected. Lai Tung Station is about 55 miles north of Canton.

The accident was apparently due to a failure to switch separately the two incoming trains. One train was reaching a siding, and then another one rushed into the same siding by mistake. The station master frantically waved the red flag, and the drivers of the two locomotives applied the brakes. Nevertheless, a "telescope" crash happened. One locomotive and two coaches were completely wrecked.

Fortunately the cars were practically empty except the two soldiers who were admitted to the Kong Chuen Hospital.

SAN FRANCISCO STRIKE

All Ready For Monday

San Francisco, July 15.

The general strike begins on Monday.

The strike decision was taken by a special labour committee created yesterday by the unions and several unions had already voted individually in favour of strike in sympathy with the longshoremen.

Meanwhile food and fuel supplies in the city are dwindling rapidly with the ever-tightening shipping blockade and restriction of land transport.

Four thousand National Guards are ready to move into the city to reinforce two thousand already there.

Sixty-three unions delegations have voted for a strike and three against it.

A general strike directly affects 100,000 workers, but an additional 50,000 may join.

The Chief of Police has declared a state of emergency.—Reuter.

ATTACK ON PRESS

Answer Given By World Opinion

Berlin, July 14. A resolution, passed by the Foreign Press Association here by 55 votes to 5, declares that the answer to the recent outburst against correspondents of foreign newspapers in Germany by the Reich Minister of Propaganda, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, has already been given by world public opinion.

The resolution states that foreign correspondents have always endeavoured to do justice to truth, and that one of the prerequisite conditions of such an endeavour consists of the provision of correct, dependable, and rapid information.

In his attack, Dr. Goebbels described the foreign despatches of the June 30 incidents as "the worst kind of gutter journalism." With few exceptions, he said, the foreign press had got into "a delirium of malicious provocation and hysterical abuse."

He warned that the German Government would not tolerate the presence of foreign correspondents who stirred people against people and rendered honest, unprejudiced international relations impossible.—Reuter.

BANDITS WRECK TRAIN

Second Outrage

Harbin, July 15. Another bandit outrage occurred to-day when they derailed and fustiladed a westward bound mixed freight and troop train eight miles west of Hengtashotze.

Two locomotives and ten wagons were smashed, while four members of the train crew were injured.

Japanese troops engaged in action and routed the attackers.—Reuter.

TWENTY KILLED

Harbin, July 14. Bandits, after they had destroyed the track, wrecked and fustiladed a westward bound freighter 30 miles to the west of Imenpo, killing 20 of the train crew and injuring three others as the wagons smashed.

The bandits then raided and pillaged Lidaotze where they smashed the telegraph and telephone instruments, and kidnapped four of the Chinese Eastern Railway employees.—Reuter.

CONFLICTING REPORTS ABOUT HUANG FU

Nanking, July 15. Conflicting reports are circulating regarding Huang Fu. One report says he will not leave Mokanshan until the autumn and another that he will be returning to Peiping shortly as a result of the week-end conference with Mr. Tang Yu Jen, Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs.—Reuter.

NAVAL TALK AGREEMENT

Postponed Until October

Tokyo, July 15. It is learned from well-informed quarters here that Britain, the United States and Japan have agreed to postpone the naval talks until October.

It is understood that by then the Japanese Naval Commissioner will have arrived in London.—Reuter.

NANKING AND CANTON

No Reunion In Sight

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, July 15. All the talk of a friendly understanding between Canton and Nanking as reported in the Chinese dailies in Hong Kong is probably feelers released by the publicity organs of the Nanking Government, declared Mr. Hui Chien to-day.

"There is no discussion at present of co-operation between Nanking and Canton," Mr. Hui continued. "The Hong Kong Chinese papers also mentioned the coming visit of Mr. Sun Fo to Canton as a representative for Nanking, but this story is not confirmed. I believe Mr. Sun may go to Hong Kong to see Judge Wang Chung Hui in order to find out from him the international situation."

Referring to the impeachment of the Chungshan model county against their magistrate, Mr. Tang Shao Yi, Mr. Hui said that the South-west Political Council is investigating the charges before making a final decision. Therefore no reply is made to the petition for impeachment.

"My colleagues and I, in our personal capacity, have written a letter to Mr. Tang drawing his attention to this matter," Mr. Hui continued. "It must be remembered that Mr. Tang is not only the magistrate of the Chungshan model county but also member of the South-west Political Council."

As regards Mr. Hui's statement that there is no co-operation with Nanking, it is regarded as significant that General Pui Hsing Hsi went to Hong Kong to see Mr. Hu Han Min. Both are critics of the Nanking Government.

SIAMESE ROYALTY AT OBERAMMERGAU

Berlin, July 14. Their Majesties the King and Queen of Siam are visiting Oberammergau during the week-end and will be staying with Alois Lang, the "Christ" of the Passion Play.—Reuter.

GERMANY'S DEBT TO AMERICA

Protests At Alleged Discrimination

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright))

Berlin, July 14.

The German answer to the American protest of June 21 in the transfer question, was delivered to the American Ambassador here on Saturday. The German declaration assures the United States that "Germany has no intention of discriminating against America but at the moment is unable to transfer the interest payment on foreign debts owing to the Reichsbank's lack of foreign currencies and the passivity of the German trade balance. The German Government is, nevertheless, ready to negotiate with the American Government as well as with any other creditor nation, with the aim of creating prerequisites in making a possible service on the Dawes and Young loans."

As regards other German obligations to the United States the German Government has no intention here to make the same declaration to the United States as contained in the Anglo-German transfer agreement of July 4. Thus, if the German Government should, with any other country, sign a special transfer treaty whose terms the American creditors wish to claim for themselves, the German Government is ready to come to a similar agreement with the American Government on the basis of equal treatment.—Trans-ocean Kuo Min.

DISCRIMINATORY TREATMENT

Berlin, July 14. The United States Government is strongly protesting to the German Government against discriminatory treatment of American holders of Dawes and Young loan bonds.

Instructions to this effect have been sent to Berlin by the Secretary of State, Mr. William Cordell Hull.—Reuter.

MORGAN COMPANY PROTEST

New York, July 14. A very vigorous protest against any failure on the part of the German Government to fulfill its obligations in respect of the Dawes and Young bonds held by American investors was made in a cable to the German Finance Minister by J. P. Morgan Company. It describes the loans as the "highest form of obligation in the power of the German Government to give."

—Reuter.

GERMAN ASSURANCE

Berlin, July 15. The Government has informed the American Ambassador that it does not intend to discriminate against the United States in the treatment of the transfer problem and is willing to negotiate in regard to continuation of the Dawes and Young interest payments.—Reuter.

DESTROYER LAUNCHES

Three destroyers of the 1932 construction programme are to be put afloat to-day. There will be a double launch at the Barrow yard of Vickers-Armstrongs, Limited, where Lady Found, the wife of Vice-Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, Second Sea Lord, will perform the naming ceremony for the Fame; and Mrs. Blake, the wife of Rear-Admiral Geoffrey Blake, Fourth Sea Lord, will perform the ceremony for the Firedrake. The third ship is the Forester, which is to be launched at the works of J. Samuel White and Co., Limited, Cowes, Isle of Wight.

The contracts for the Fame and Firedrake were awarded to the Parsons Marine Steam Turbine Company, of Wallsend-on-Tyne, who will provide the machinery for the vessels, only the hulls being built at Barrow. With to-day's launches, four out of the eight destroyers authorized in 1932 will be afloat, as the typeship, H.M.S. Fearless, was launched by Cammell, Laird and Co., Birkenhead, on May 12.

All three ships to go afloat to-day have names of Stuart origin. Fame is perhaps best known. It has been borne by about a dozen vessels since 1854, and the earliest became a fireship and was burnt in action with the Dutch in June, 1865. During the Boxer War of 1900 the destroyer Fame, under Lieutenant (now Admiral of the Fleet) Sir Roger Kyes, took part with the Whiting in the capture of four Chinese destroyers lying between Taku and Tongku, and it was in recognition of his conduct that Sir Roger was promoted to commander at the age of 28. Firedrake dates from 1848 and Forester from 1857. All three names were borne by destroyers during the late war.

ATHLETICS AT WHITE CITY

London, July 14.

There were 20,000 spectators when the Amateur Athletic Championships were continued at White City in dull weather to-day.

In three events decided yesterday, Holden of the Tipton Harriers, retained his six-mile running title, covering the distance in 30 minutes 43 4/5 seconds.

In the 2-mile walking race, Cooper of Woodford Green the holder, won in 13 minutes 41 seconds.

Indians Create League Record

The league lawn bowls matches on Saturday provided no startling results. The only upset in the first division was the surprisingly good form of the Police Recreation Club who won at Tai Koo. The Bowling Green had a close shave, coming away with a three-shot victory over the Club de Recreio.

In the second division the Indian Recreation Club are proving themselves a big factor. They visited the Hong Kong Football Club and won by the huge margin of 90 to 46. Their score of 90 is a league record for this season. The Bowling Green who are lying second, just managed to win on the Recreio's rinks getting home by a difference of one shot.

In both divisions the Civil Service Club's engagements were postponed.

KOWLOON DOCKS WIN INTER-HONG RELAY RACE

Thrills At The Y.M.C.A. Swimming Gala

The Kowloon Docks, swimming almost a first class team established an easy win in the Inter-Hong Relay at the European Y.M.C.A. Swimming gala on Saturday night, when they defeated the holders, the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation by almost half a length.

Although they won by this margin they by no means had the race all to themselves from the very start, for S. A. Gray gave the Bank an early lead by a yard over J. Lawrence, but Logan overtook Rigg to give the Docks the lead for the first time, the latter increasing it with Ellis and Padgett who finished the race in the very excellent time of 51-2/5 secs.

In the Club races there were several upsets, H. G. Lange bringing off a surprise by a brilliant win in the 75 Yards Medley Race when he overtook R. B. Wood in the last length, 25 yards free style, to win by two seconds.

Wood established an early lead in the 25 Yards Back-stroke with Lange and E. F. Selk in close attendance, and on the turn to the breast stroke had a definite lead over Lange. The latter however, on his second turning came up within a foot of Wood and finished a strong winner.

In the Men's 50 Yards Aggregate Handicap, R. Goldman provided a surprise by defeating both A. G. Donn and H. G. Lange in 27 4/5 seconds.

Anslo who went at "go" was overtaken by Goldman, Lange and Donn just about three quarters of the first length and all four swimmers reached the wall almost together.

Goldman made a splendid turn and shot away into the lead followed closely by Donn, Lange and Anslo, finishing up just under a yard to the good of Donn in a splendid finish where touches separated the second, third and fourth swimmers.

In the first heat of this event, Jenkins established an early lead and swimming a good pace won narrowly from G. Fowler, the scratch man, who swam one of his finest races to date to record 28 seconds for the 50 yards.

In the second heat the Fowler brothers, F. and S. had the race to themselves, and the second length produced a thrilling fight for leadership, F. Fowler just beating his younger brother by a touch in 34 seconds.

The Ladies' Undoubtedly one of the most thrilling races of the night was the Ladies' 50 Yards Aggregate Handicap which was won by Miss J. Weller from Mrs. A. C. Schreuder, who started from scratch, in 37-3/5 secs. Mrs. Schreuder conceded 12 seconds to Miss J. Wilson, and swam a magnificent race to lose by a minute fraction.

The handicapping in this event was very good and although at first it looked as if the margin was too much, Mrs. Schreuder and the others all finished up in a bunch.

The Misses George, (Margaret and Winifred), made their first appearance in the Y.M.C.A. swimming gala and judging from their efforts they look towards repeating the successes attained by their elder sister, Mrs. M. George-Read. The latter was an interested spectator, being unable to swim as she was indisposed.

In the Men's 50 Yards Back-stroke, A. G. Donn secured his first win of the evening by a touch from J. Anslo while E. F. Selk and H. G. Lange were only a fraction behind.

This was one of the finest races seen in the "Y" Bath for some time and the "ultimate result" was in doubt until the last few yards, when Donn spurred and just beat Anslo, Selk being just behind the latter.

The Pillow Fight provided an amusing interlude between swimming events and H. F. Lange beat F. Fowler on an infringement in the final.

The Mixed Relay was again one of the most popular events on the programme and drew 21 swimmers. H. G. Lange's team won comfortably from R. Goldman's team, while Donn was not far behind the latter.

Water Polo The Water Polo game should have been between the European Civil Service and the Y.M.C.A. but unfortunately several of the former failed to put in an appearance and consequently the Civil Service team was reshuffled and several "Y" members brought in. The game was even and fast, both sides tackling and marking well.

The "Y" opened the scoring just before the interval when as a result of a long lob by Donn, F. Fowler took possession in a scramble in the goal-mouth and scored with a fast shot.

The second half opened at a terrific pace the "Y" attacking in the deep end, but the Civil Servants equalised through Aris, who unmarked, scored easily from close-in.

The fight for leadership assumed serious results when H. G. Lange sustained an injury to his right eye by an accident at finger-thrust and Donn was hit over the bridge of the nose by the ball. Both sets of forwards sent in innumerable powerful shots, but both H. F. Lange for the "Y" and S. Fowler for the "Civil Servants" were magnificent and often stopped point-blank shots.

Eventually a break-away saw Schreuder score a characteristic goal and a few seconds from time he put the issue beyond doubt when Goldman swam down the right wing and lobbed a ball into his hands, for Schreuder to net with a magnificent first-throw.

Following the gala, dancing took place in the West Lounge to Mr. Stott's Band.

The results were:—

SOMERSET SAVE THE GAME

Surrey's Poor Slip Fielding

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, June 29. After a brave fight Somerset managed to draw their match with Surrey at the Oval yesterday. With two of their most valuable wickets down in their second innings they were still 213 runs behind Surrey's first innings score. As the morning progressed, so did Surrey's hopes of victory increase. Indeed, at the luncheon interval four more Somerset wickets had fallen for the addition of only 86 runs.

Wellard, however, after a quiet start quickly knocked the bowlers off their length. Once again Surrey's poor slip fielding cost them the match, for Wellard was missed in the slips when he had scored 22 runs, and, profiting by his escape, he went on to play a gallant innings of 112 runs, which included three 6's and 14 4's. A remarkable partnership of 112 runs between Wellard and Hawkins went a long way to deprive Surrey of the victory. Wellard was then joined by Luckes, and before they were separated 55 runs had been added for the eighth wicket, and Somerset had saved the game.

Inside Attacks The Bowling. Soon after the game was continued Watts bowled J. Lee with a well pitched-up break ball, but a few moments later Davey was missed in the slips by Garland-Wellis off Parker. This mistake, however, was not expensive, as in Parker's next over Davey nicked a rising ball into the wicket-keeper's hands. Rain then held up the game for 25 minutes, and after C. C. Case and R. A. Ingle had taken the score to 98 Case was brilliantly caught by Parker at square-leg off Gregory. Ingle brought the 100 up by turning Gover to leg for two runs, and then began to attack the bowling, being particularly severe on Gregory, but Gregory soon had his revenge by taking a magnificent one-handed catch off his own bowling. L. Hawkins made some very good strokes, including a nice off drive to the boundary off Watts, and at the luncheon interval the score had been taken to 123 without further loss.

When play was continued Hawkins and Wellard made a brave fight to save their side from an innings defeat. At first they were rather slow, but after half an hour Wellard brightened up the proceedings by hitting Gregory for two 4's and a 6 in one over. He then had a lucky escape, being dropped in the slips by Garland-Wellis off Gover, and this mistake proved to be very expensive, for Wellard went on to make 112 runs. For a while this escape had a subduing effect on Wellard, but eventually he again became aggressive, and after he had been batting for exactly an hour hit Watts for two 4's to take his score to 50.

Wellard then settled down to enjoy himself at the expense of some rather demoralized Surrey bowlers. Hawkins, too, entered into the spirit of the thing, and straight driving Gregory for 6 brought the 200 up on the board. Wellard greeted the new ball by hitting Watts for yet another 6, and a moment later he sliced a drive off the same bowler and scored a single to complete the partnership 100 in 30 minutes. Two runs later, however, Hawkins hit a short ball from Watts with the bottom edge of his bat and gave Brooks an easy catch.

Short-Lived Hopes. Surrey's hopes, however, were short-lived. Luckes came in to keep his end up by presenting a perfectly straight bat at everything, while Wellard immediately proceeded to take two more 4's off successive balls from Gover. Another boundary hit and four byes saved the innings defeat, and a moment later a beautiful off-drive gave Wellard a well-deserved and hard-hitting century. Garland-Wellis tried all his more regular bowling in turn, but eventually a third hit for 6 by Wellard forced Garland-Wellis, in desperation, to bring Fishlock on to bowl. This change had the desired effect, for Wellard sliced a drive and was caught by mid-off.

Somerset's resistance, however, was by no means at an end. Sandham gave them some assistance by dropping a very easy catch from Marsh, and Luckes, who was not relieved of his responsibility of keeping his end up, proceeded to carry on Wellard's good work. Treating the bowling as it deserved, he quickly took the score past 300, and then turned Watts to leg for two runs to complete his 50.

AUSTRALIANS' FINE WIN

Gentlemen Beaten
Easily

The Australians beat the Gentlemen of England at Lord's yesterday by eight wickets. When, at the close of play on Monday, the Australians still required 224 runs to win, even if they had all their wickets in hand, there was reason for the hope of a good finish; for it was said that the pitch was wearing—people always say that. It sounds knowing.

If the pitch had indeed worn then McCabe and Brown in a delightful exhibition of batsmanship never gave the bowlers, nor the spectators, any encouragement in their belief that the ball would behave extravagantly. I have seen these Australians bat on many grounds this summer, and have yet to come away with the impression that they have been playing on anything but a perfect wicket. Such is the quality of their technique.

Woodfull had sent in Ebeling and Barnett on Monday evening, and yesterday they added 15 more runs to the total of 11 to the bowling of H. D. Read and Holmes before Barnett, a left-handed batsman of ideas, hit a ball from Read hard in the direction of square-leg, where E. W. Dawson made a good catch. The Gentlemen of England should have had Ebeling out soon afterwards when he skied the most simple of catches between Read, the bowler, and F. R. Brown at mid-off. No one called and the ball fluttered quietly down between them. Brown in due course was put on at the Nursery end and at 63 he had Ebeling out leg-before-wicket, but that was the last Australian out.

A BATSMAN OF CLASS. McCabe and Brown in a little over an hour before luncheon added 102 glorious runs. McCabe, with his beautiful square cutting and his short-armed hook, scored the bulk of the runs, and he was also the more lucky, for when he had made 37 he should have been stumped off R. W. V. Robins, who was bowling better than he has done lately, and who sorely required a little encouragement. McCabe is now more than a cheerful, punishing batsman. Every stroke that he makes bears the pattern of class, and even when he is scoring fast, one can spare time to watch his perfect back play. He reached his 50 with a square cut which whistled to the boundary, and in the same over he hooked Read into the Mound Stand, two strokes which sent out that glorious sound which comes only after the perfectly timed stroke. You can shut your eyes and hear McCabe batting.

When the total had reached 150 the Gentlemen of England seemed to relax a little, and some of their fielding, which had never been good, became decidedly ragged. C. E. Livock was not a success in this match as a wicket-keeper. The luncheon interval score was 165, McCabe then having made 69 and Brown 33, and although E. H. T. Holmes bowled afterwards as if he were expecting a complete collapse of the Australians, the runs had been knocked off by five minutes to 3. McCabe had batted for an hour and three-quarters, and in addition to his 6, had hit 14 4's during an innings which had been a pleasure to watch.

A SHORT DAY'S PLAY

The break in the weather spoiled the chance of an interesting day's cricket at Edgbaston yesterday. Kent, who were 140 runs in front with one batsman out, lost three more wickets while adding 30 runs, and afterwards there were several stoppages. Ames made some good runs and drives, but, stopping out to drive Paine, he was cleverly stumped. Paine, who carried his bat for 41 not out, found runs

The injury to Don Bradman's thigh, which has forced him to rest for a few days, has yielded to treatment.

NEW YORK STOCK AND COMMODITY QUOTATIONS

AMERICAN ORIENTAL FINANCE CORPORATION AND S. E. LEVY &amp; CO.

New York, July 13. The American Oriental Finance Corporation report through their New York agents, Messrs. E. A. Pierce & Co., states:—

Stocks:—Investment demand again became evident after yesterday's set-back. The general sentiment remains rather constructive and the belief seems to be growing that a break-out on the up-side would not be surprising.

Wheat:—There was renewed speculative buying, following buying in the Kansas City market, in anticipation of declines in the winter wheat movement.

Cotton:—The market reached new high levels for the season due to unfavourable weather reports from all sections of the Belt. The advance was checked at the 13 1/2 level for December due to selling. The market reacted slightly later under realising sales. Selling today was partly on European accounts, while the South also sold moderately on the way up.

New York, July 14. Stocks:—There has been no particular change in the situation, other than the fact that the performance of rails was somewhat better. Business done 150,000 shares.

Wheat:—The market opened easier and later turned strong, after the opening prices changing rapidly. Commission houses appeared to be on both the buying and selling sides, while there was a liberal amount of profit-taking. Fairly good buying was encountered on set-backs. There was some hedging and it would appear that buyers were rather cautious about following advances towards the close.

Cotton:—Continued buying carried prices to new high levels. The advance to the 13 1/2 cent level for May attracted a considerable amount of realizing sales, some Southern and Foreign selling proving temporarily in excess of demand. The weather forecast offers but little prospect of relief in the Texas drought situation.

The following telegram was received from York during the A.O.F.C. night service:—

The car-loadings report exercised an immediate influence on

CARGO JUNK
ATTACKEDPiracy In Canton
RiverMASTER'S SON SHOT DEAD

While sailing near Ship Bay in Chinese territory at about 1 a.m. on Saturday, a Chinese cargo junk was suddenly attacked by a small fishing boat with eight pirates on board and robbed of money and property. The junk was also stolen.

According to a report made to the Water Police by Chan Liu, aged 41 years, master of the junk, the craft after being loaded with 360 piculs of lily-roots, valued at about $400, left Bocca Tigris, Canton for Hong Kong last Friday morning, with a crew of several men, together with the wife and family of the master.

At about 1 a.m. on Saturday, when the junk was sailing near the north of Chak Wan, which is in Chinese territory a fishing boat, came alongside and eight men jumped into the junk. Three of them were armed with revolvers.

At that time, several shots were fired, and the master's son, Chan Pau, 21, was shot. Continuing, Chan Liu stated that he jumped into the water and swam away. When he stopped swimming, he saw his junk with his wife, Lee Hung, his daughter-in-law, Leung Shu, his grandson, Chan Ping and four folks aboard, sailing off in the direction of Macao.

The master gave a description of the pirates to the Water Police stating that they were all dressed in black cotton clothing.

"BILL BASED ON FEAR"

90-Year-Old Mrs. Despard
In Demonstration

(Special Air Mail Service)
London, June 29.
Mrs. Despard, one of the leaders of the old suffragette movement and a sister of the late Earl of Ypres who celebrated her 90th birthday just over a week ago, was among the speakers at a big demonstration in Trafalgar Square, London, yesterday to protest against the Government's Incitement and Disaffection Bill.

Members of various organisations marched in detachments to

PLANTO CONTROL
TRADE TERMSWhat Mr. Runciman's
New Bill Aims to Do

(Special Air Mail Service)
London, July 29.
The Merchandise Marks (Trade Descriptions) Bill, introduced by Mr. Runciman on Thursday, was issued on Saturday.

The object of the Bill is to make provision for the definition of terms in connection with trade descriptions, and as to the effect of such definition, and for purposes connected with such matters.

These definitions are to be made by Order in Council on the recommendation of the Board of Trade, but no such recommendation shall be made unless a reference with respect to the goods has been made by the Board to the one or more "Trade Descriptions Committees" which are to be constituted under the measure and their report has been considered by the Board.

Not Foods and Drugs
No reference is to be made with regard to food and drugs, and except with the concurrence of the Government Department concerned no reference is to be made to committees regarding fertilisers of the soil and food for cattle or poultry; fungicides, insecticides, and weed-killers; and therapeutic substances.

A financial memorandum states that the only expenditure under this Bill, so far as can be foreseen, will be the salaries or fees paid to the members of the committee or committees, their travelling expenses, and other incidental expenses. It is thought that the total cost will probably not exceed £2,000 per annum.

the Square from all parts of London. The meeting throughout was orderly, there being no incident calling for the intervention of the police, who were present.

"This is a Bill based on fear," said Mrs. Despard. "If we allow such a bill to pass we shall have ourselves to blame for even worse things that will come after it. If the Bill passes, any policeman may go into your house. Some one may have left some documents there which might be called seditious. The unfortunate master or mistress will be responsible and will be arrested. I am glad to make my voice heard against anything so iniquitous."

GERMAN SHARE
MARKET

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright))
Berlin, July 13.

Both the sharemarket and the fixed interest securities market were exceedingly quiet, very few important transactions taking place and the prices, except in special cases advancing but little though in both markets a distinct tendency towards improvement was noticeable. Generally speaking the whole week was characterised by dullness, in all sections in the bourse, a slight betterment on Wednesday proving unlasting. The investors were cautious pending the passage of the prevailing political uneasiness and the steps expected in the economic situation since Minister Schmidt had been equipped with unprecedented dictatorial powers. BRITAIN'S OVER-
SEA TRADE

Effects Of Tariffs

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, July 29.

The influences which during the past two years have been affecting the magnitude and character of Britain's overseas trade are discussed in an article in the Westminster Bank Review.

"The recent course of British overseas trade," it is stated, "suggests that Governmental policy—whether fiscal or monetary—is less effective in diverting trade into fresh channels than in obstructing it."

"Compared with the curtailment effected in our imports of manufactures by the general tariff and other duties, the results of the divorce of sterling from gold, of the trade pacts with several foreign countries, or even of the Ottawa agreements, are slight."

"If the expansion in manufactured imports so far seen this year is maintained, they will still be only three-quarters of the amount imported in 1931."

"Quite apart from any diversion of trade owing to the Ottawa duties, the proportion of our imports coming from foreign countries has automatically fallen owing to the duties on manufactures."

"If we make allowance for this distinction, the remaining portion of the rise in the Empire's share of our overseas trade amounts only, broadly speaking, to the restoration of the proportion it represented for the collapse in the prices of primary products temporarily reduced it."

"On the other hand, Great Britain's adoption of tariffs does not appear to have had immediate harmful repercussions on our export trade, which is, indeed, sharing in such improvement as has so far been seen in international trade. But, by raising still another serious obstacle to international intercourse, the British tariff has played a part in retarding that improvement, and, therefore, in hampering the one factor upon which hopes of full recovery of our own export trade must depend."

How It Happened

A man, walking along a country lane, came across a man with a dejected expression on his face, gazing up into a large oak tree. Following his glance, the tourist was astonished to see a baby car wedged among the branches.

"How on earth did that get there?" he inquired.

"Well, as a matter of fact," replied the unhappy owner, "I was trying to crank it up, and it flew right off the handle."

SECRET

An Air Love Story

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, July 29.

Miss Jean Batten, the "Try Again" air girl—so called because she failed twice before she made her record solo flight from England to Australia last month—arrived at her home in Auckland today.

And almost the first thing she said was that she had been engaged for three months to Mr. Edward Fraser Walker, a London stockbroker.

Owing to the uncertainty of her programme, however, she said she could not give even the approximate date of the wedding.

She expects to remain in New Zealand for several months.

Miss Batten, who is 24 was met by her father, "Hullo, Jean," he said when he found her in her state-room in the liner Acragati, in which she had travelled from Australia.

"Hullo, Daddy"

"Hullo, Daddy," Jean replied, and immediately they were in each other's arms.

An escort of aeroplanes greeted the liner at sea and escorted her into harbour. Large crowds gave Jean a magnificent reception.

Miss Batten will go to Wellington tomorrow, where she will be the guest of Lord Bledisloe, the Governor-General of New Zealand, and Lady Bledisloe.

Fellow Flyers

Mr. Walker lives at Redcliffe Gardens, Hammermith, and is associated with a City firm of stockbrokers. He is 36.

"I have known Miss Batten for six or seven months," he said today. "We came together through our mutual interest in flying. We are both members of Brooklands Flying Club, and we have often flown together in short flights."

"Miss Batten used the wings of my machine for her flight to Australia. When she returned from Rome after her second unsuccessful attempt, she wanted to get away again quickly to avoid the monsoons. So we had the wings of my machine, which is of the same type as hers, fitted to her machine."

"The wedding? Well, we have made no plans yet. But it will probably be in England."

Miss Batten flew from Lympne to Port Darwin in 18 days, the fastest time in which any woman has accomplished the flight. The record was previously held by Mrs. Amy Molson, who took 19 1/2 days.

LESSON SERMON

First Church Of Christ, Scientist

"God" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday July 15th.

The Golden Text was: "Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever" (Rev. 7:18).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Give thanks unto the Lord, call upon his name, make known his deeds among the people. Sing unto him, sing psalms unto him, talk ye of all his wondrous works. Glory ye in his holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord. Seek the Lord and his strength, seek his face continually. Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name: bring an offering, and come before him: worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness" (1 Chron. 16: 8-11, 29).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Question—Is there more than one God or Principle? Answer—There is not. Principle and His idea is one, and this one is God, omnipotent, omniscient, and omnipresent Being, and His reflection is men and the universe. Omni is adopted from the Latin adjective signifying all. Hence God combines all-power or potency, all-science or true knowledge, all-presence." (pp. 445-446).
